

NEW YORK HERALD.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT
PROPRIETOR.
JAMES GORDON BENNETT, JR.
MANAGER.
BROADWAY AND ANN STREET.

Volume XXXII. No. 163

AMUSEMENTS THIS AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

BROADWAY THEATRE, Broadway, near Broome street.—LEAH, THE FORSAKEN.
WRELLER SISTERS' NEW YORK THEATRE, opposite New York Hotel.—PASTOR, THE DOCTOR AND THE DEVIL'S DAUGHTER.—HIS LAST LEAD.

OLYMPIC THEATRE, Broadway.—THEATRE TROPE, Academy of Music, Irving place.—THE INFANT TRIO OF JAPANESE ARTISTS IN THEIR WONDERFUL FEATS. Matinee at 2 1/2 o'clock.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS, 555 Broadway, opposite the Metropolitan Hotel.—JIMMY AND THE LITTLE BOY, SINGING, DANCING AND JUGGLING.—THEIR NEW TRICKS BY THE GUN HUNTERS.—POLITICAL ADDRESS.

KELLY & LEON'S MINSTRELS, 720 Broadway, opposite the New York Hotel.—IN THEIR SONG, DANCE, ECCESTRICITIES, JUGGLING, &c.—NORMA.—THE JAPS.

FIFTH AVENUE OPERA HOUSE, Nos. 2 and 4 West Twenty-fourth street.—GIVEN & CHRISTIE'S MINSTRELS, SINGING, DANCING AND JUGGLING.—THEIR NEW TRICKS BY THE GUN HUNTERS.—POLITICAL ADDRESS.

BUTLER'S AMERICAN THEATRE, 472 Broadway.—BUTLER, PACE, PANTOMIME, JUGGLING, ECCESTRICITIES AND SENSATIONAL VIOLENCE, &c.

TERRACE GARDEN, Third Avenue and Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth streets.—TACONORA THOMAS POPULAR GARDEN CONCERTS, at 8 o'clock P. M.

HOOVER'S OPERA HOUSE, Brooklyn.—THEATRE TROPE, ITALIAN AND BELGIAN.—THE TROUBLE OF THE JAPANESE.

THE RIVAN TABLEAU, Union Hall, corner of Twenty-third street and Broadway, at 8.—MOVING MIRROR OF THE FUTURE'S PROGRESS.—MAGNIFICENT SCENES. Matinee every afternoon at 2 1/2 o'clock.

NEW YORK MUSEUM OF ANATOMY 65 Broadway.—HEAD AND RIGHT ARM OF PROPHET.—THE WASHINGTON TWINS.—WONDERS IN NATURE, HISTORY, SCIENCE AND ART. Lectures daily. Open from 8 A. M. till 10 P. M.

TRIPLE SHEET.

New York, Wednesday, June 12, 1867.

THE NEWS.

EUROPE.

The news report by the Atlantic cable is dated yesterday, June 11.

The czar of Russia left Paris yesterday for Germany. Egypt declared a separate sovereignty by a firman of the sultan of Turkey. The new king of Hungary has, it is said, expended "vast sums" of money for charitable purposes in Pesth. The Fenian "traitors" lately convicted in Ireland have been removed to England.

Consols closed at 94 1/2 for money in London. Fluctuations were at 73 in London and 77 1/2 in Frankfurt. The Liverpool cotton market closed dull, with middling uplands at 13 1/2. Breadstuffs were lower. Provisions generally unchanged.

By special correspondence and newspaper mail reports we have additional details of our cable dispatches, to the 30th of May, embracing matter of much interest.

THE CITY.

The Board of Commissioners did not meet yesterday noon, a quorum not being present when the roll was called. The next meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon.

In the Board of Supervisors yesterday a large number of bills for work on the new Court House were passed. A resolution appropriating $55,380 for the expenses incurred by the Mayor, Corporation Council and Board of Supervisors in the settlement of the banks, and insurance companies' claims was adopted.

Collector Smythe has issued a circular setting forth the regulations to be followed by officers of customs in examining the baggage of passengers arriving at this port.

There were 36,119 emigrants arrived at this port during the month of May. Most of them immediately made their way westward, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin receiving the largest share of them.

Coroner Wilder held an inquest yesterday morning, at No. 30 East Nineteenth street, on the bodies of Alfred R. King and Mattie Greenman, who were found dead in their bed on last Monday night. The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that Mattie Greenman came to her death by the discharge of a pistol in the hands of King, and that King committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. A letter found on the body of the unfortunate man, dated at the "Sherman House, Broome street, June 9," disclosed the fact that the girl has a sister living at No. 1 Stewart street, Brooklyn. It says:—"I have tried every means in my power to get employment, to take care of the girl I love. My folks and relatives have refused to assist me in any way. To have her I loved lead a life of shame I cannot do."

A very extensive robbery was perpetrated in the store of J. M. Oppenheimer & Co., No. 41 Broadway, on Monday night, five caiks, containing nineteen hundred undressed oil skins, valued at $15,000, being taken from the building. No clue as to the manner by which the robbery was so successfully perpetrated has been discovered.

A turpentine and rosin manufactory on Dikeman street, Brooklyn, burned down yesterday, involving a loss of $35,000. Two men employed in the establishment were badly scalded.

In the test case recently made up and argued before Judges Leonard, Ingraham and Smith, of the Supreme Court, General Term, for the purpose of testing the constitutionality of the twelfth section of the Tax Levy, or Session laws of 1867, which transferred the power of assessing hackmen, pawnbrokers, milkdealers, &c., from the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonality of the city of New York to the Board of Metropolitan Police, a decision was yesterday rendered, giving judgment in favor of the municipal authorities, all the judges concurring.

A motion was made in the Court of Common Pleas, Chambers, before Judge Cardozo, for the discharge on habeas corpus of Louise Allen, who had been committed on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. It appearing to the Court that no preliminary examination had taken place the motion was denied.

An action was brought in the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday, by Frederick Grimm, to recover $250 damages from Roderick W. Cameron, a shipmaster, for an alleged breach of contract, in not furnishing the plaintiff, as agreed, a passage to Melbourne, Australia, in the ship Pactolus. The vessel did not sail on the day appointed, and when she subsequently cleared the plaintiff was left behind. Verdict for plaintiff, $166 36.

In the Superior Court, Part I, yesterday, in the case of Sylvia Brillat, vs. the Atlantic Mail Steamship Company, an action to recover damages for the loss of plaintiff's trunk, on the voyage from this port to Havana, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $337 27.

But seven jurors answered to their names in the Court of Common Pleas, Part 2, yesterday morning, and consequently, although the calendar is much crowded, numerous cases had to go off till October. His Honor Judge Brady addressed the members of the bar and stated that he had had an interview with the Commissioners of Jurors, and that he had been promised that things would be different next fall. He (Judge Brady) expected to have the merchants of New York as jurors; and if he had the power to send the Sheriff after them he should have a jury in this Court next fall if he lived.

In the case of Robinson vs. The International Life Assurance Company, an action in the Supreme Court to recover on a policy of life insurance issued to one McKelvie, in Elizabeth, Va., in 1846, and the premiums on which, subsequent to the outbreak of the late war, were paid in Confederate money, the jury yesterday returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $13,755 26.

The Inman line steamship Edinburgh, Captain Briggs, will leave pier 45 North river at noon to-day for Liverpool, calling at Queenstown to land passengers.

The stock market was, on the whole, firm yesterday. Gold closed at 137 1/2.

Business continued dull yesterday, and commercial transactions were greatly circumscribed. The dealers were not universal, however, a few of the leading commodities having been freely dealt in, and generally at full prices. The market for breadstuffs continued to rule steady, under a fair demand for flour. Wheat was nearly nominal, while corn and oats were again decidedly lower. Potatoes opened at an advance, but closed heavy, with a part of the improvement lost. Beef ruled steady, while lard was more active, though still heavy. Freight was firm. Whiskey was steady. Cotton was heavy, while coffee was unchanged. Naval stores were a shade firmer. Petroleum ruled dull, though quite firm. Wool continued to rule dull and heavy.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Our Mexican reports, extracted from the papers in the interior and on the border, contain further items of interest regarding the surrender of Querétaro and Maximilian. Escobedo, it is said, was sent at a distance of three miles to receive the sword of Maximilian, which was a most costly one, the hilt of it being decorated with diamonds. The traitor Lopez is an uncle of Marshal Bazaine, and was the bosom friend of Maximilian. Escobedo is reported to have killed several wounded men and prisoners with his own hand after the surrender took place.

Our Panama correspondence is dated June 2. The State was in a fever of excitement. President Orla and his ministers had determined to secede from the Colombian Union, and as a first step made an attempt to seize the Colombian man-of-war Bolivar. In this attempt, however, they were frustrated by the address of the captain of the vessel, and she put to sea. A circular was issued by the President to the consuls and ministers of foreign countries in the State, informing them that it was the intention to secede if the news of Mosquera's assumption of the dictatorship proved true. At the same time orders increasing the commercial taxes fifty per cent, and levying a forced loan of $50,000 were issued. The first order applied to foreigners and natives alike, the latter only to natives. The foreign consuls held a meeting and protested against the increase of taxation, but nothing further was heard from Orla on the subject. The importing merchants thereupon agreed to close their places of business, and when the President called a meeting of them they placed their cases in the hands of their respective consuls and refused to attend. The President afterwards acted very discreetly towards the foreign consuls. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

Our correspondence from Lima, Peru, is dated May 22. The revolution was assuming a decided shape. The English mail steamer Limona, from Valparaiso for Panama, was seized by Caldera Castillo and about thirty other discontented Peruvians, of Iquique, carried into the small port of Mejillones de Pisagua, divided of fifty cases of her cargo containing American rifles, and then allowed to proceed on her way. Considerable excitement ensued among the authorities on hearing of this. Mr. Hicks, the American Consul, advised the American merchants to go on with their business and refuse to pay the extra tax; but they did not do so. In the interior the revolt is more general. Antioquia, Magdalena and Santander are preparing for a vigorous warfare against Mosquera. A Spanish rear admiral had arrived at Carthagena and ordered the release of the Ryo and her restoration to the Colombian authorities.

The Commencement of the New Era—New York the Starting Point for the Nation.

The fall of the present year will be the commencement of the new era in the history of New York. The existing era began at the epoch of the adoption of the present State constitution, with its blunders, heresies and license, and has been marked by a steady increase of misrule year after year, until the people are borne down by the weight of debt and taxation, and the whole State is given over to anarchy and corruption. It is now about to close, and the great political reconstruction for which the whole nation is preparing itself will appropriately and properly find its starting point in New York.

The action of the Constitutional Convention now in session at Albany will destroy both the existing political organizations in the State and lay the foundation of a great reform movement which will be the nucleus of the national party, whose province it will be to make General Grant the next President and to finally dispose of all the old leaders, hacks, aspirants and fanatics—secession, copperhead and radical. Whatever course the Convention may take the result will be the same, and it cannot be averted. There are some men among the delegates on both sides who will be anxious to make a good constitution and submit it to the people for their approval; but if they succeed it will be despite of the partisans in the body, all of whom, whether democratic or republican, will oppose any alteration of the organic law that will not insure to their own political advantage. Their work will be repudiated by both the existing political organizations in the November election, and efforts will be made by the leaders and their partisans, either openly or covertly, to defeat it. But it will be supported by the great mass of the people, and its success at the polls will of itself be the inauguration of the new era and the commencement of the political reconstruction of the whole nation. If, on the other hand, the radical fanatics in the Convention, led by Greeley and aided by the Brookings and their copperhead associates, should force upon us a bad and unacceptable constitution, then the people of the State will unite against them and their work, and will overthrow them all. There will, in that event, be a popular combination upon candidates nominated, without reference either to democracy or radicalism; the party tickets will everywhere be defeated; the constitution will be rejected, and the people will take the reform of the organic law and the purification of the government into their own hands. In either case the corrupt, worn-out political organizations will be swept out of existence, and the foundation laid for the great Grant movement of next year.

Under these circumstances it is fortunate that the State Constitutional Convention was authorized by nearly four hundred thousand voters at the last November election